Springfield firm to buy local bank

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

SPRINGFIELD — Firstbank of Illinois Co., based in Springfield, has signed a definitive agreement to acquire Central Banc System Inc. and its two subsidiaries, Central Bank of Fairview Heights and Farmers and Merchants Bank of Carlinville.

The announcement was made Monday by Chris Zettek, vice president and chief financial officer for Firstbank.

Central Banc System Inc., headquartered in Fairview Heights, also operates Central Banks in Granite City, Glen Carbon and Marine. Central Bank in Granite City includes what at one time was the American National Bank, later the American Heritage Bank and now Central Bank.

The Central Banc System was organized by owners of the former Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, founded in 1910.

Central Banc had consolidated assets of $308 million on Dec. 31, 1990. The total purchase price of $27,500,000, while subject to certain adjustments and contingencies, is to be comprised of approximately $4 million in Firstbank common stock and the remainder in cash, Zettek said.

The transaction is subject to approval by regulatory agencies and Central Banc System Inc. shareholders, and is expected to be completed during the second quarter.

Federal suit against alderman dismissed

EAST ST. LOUIS — A federal judge on Friday dismissed a lawsuit against a Granite City alderman and the city.

Judge William D. Stiehl dismissed the seven-count suit filed by Patricia and David Woodin of Granite City against 2nd Ward Alderman Jim Miller and Granite City.

The suit, which grew out of a 1989 arrest of the Woodins, had originally been filed in Madison County Circuit Court. It was moved to federal court at the request of the Woodins, who alleged Miller and the city had violated their civil rights under the U.S. Constitution.

According to the suit, Miller went to the Central Car Wash on Narmook Road on April 16, 1989, while the Woodins were cleaning the stalls. After he was told he couldn't wash his van, the suit alleges,

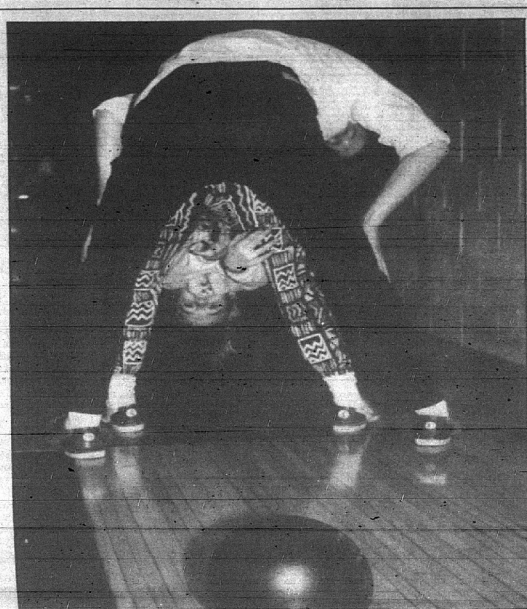

Miller became abusive and subsequently had them arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and assault.

Those charges were later dropped, the suit says.

In his dismissal order, Stiehl said he first had to address the federal civil rights charge before considering the remainder of the charges, which accused both Miller and the city of false arrest and false imprisonment and charged Miller with malicious prosecution and slander.

Stiehl ruled that the suit failed to list what rights Miller had violated, listing only "vague" allusions to deprivation attributable to a myriad of constitutional sources, and also failed to show that Miller had acted under the "color of state law."

Address changes for 911 prove to be a challenge

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Changing the addresses of 5,000 to 10,000 Madison County residents over the next few months has proved to be something of a challenge.

Rural route addresses will be changed to street addresses so a Master Street Address Guide (MSAG) can be compiled for use by the Madison County 911 emergency phone system. The county should go on-line in December.

Edwardsville and Highland already have the service.

The project's consultants, the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, has gotten most of the information it needs from the United States Postal Service, but not all.

"The post office is able to tell us about 99.9 percent of who lives where," said G. William Grogan of East-West.

But for additional help, staff members are relying on a variety of sources — fire departments, mail carriers and even long-time residents to help establish who lives where in rural areas.

"There are so many people to be found," said Terry Stuchlik, who is addressing the northern half of Madison County.

Water and sewer district personnel and water and bottled gas delivery men have even been called into action.

"Help has basically come from anybody who knows exactly where someone lives," Stuchlik said. "If a delivery man visits a particular residence on a regular basis, he's going to know who lives there."

The helpers have also been able to correct misinformation and identify properties the consultants may not be aware of, Stuchlik said.

"They're helping us to avoid mislocating and a variety of other problems down the road," Stuchlik said.

Addressing is a four-step process and determining the rural addresses is only the first step. The second is using county maps and plats; each residence is determined on a grid. Residents then are verified using tax records and matching the parcel identification numbers with those on the grid.

The fourth and final step is to notify residents of their new addresses, an activity that the consultants are not yet ready for, Stuchlik said.

Some streets also have not yet been named.

Following the notification, residents will be given a chance to comment or protest the change, Stuchlik said.

New interest expressed in downtown business sites

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Renewed interest in downtown property has city officials optimistic about the chances for a renaissance in the area.

The city has received three separate proposals for use of the old Koetting Ford repair and paint shop at 18th Street and Grand Avenue, according to Alderman Jim Miller, chairman of the downtown rehabilitation committee. Miller made the announcement at the Feb. 5 meeting of the City Council.

Miller said the city had received a proposal from Morris B. Chapman, a local attorney, to rent the property in question, now owned by the city. He declined to identify the other interested parties.

"But since we have three proposals, Miller said, 'all received at the same time ... the committee recommends advertising for submission of competing plans' for proposed use of the property."

The proposals come on the heels of an announcement by Don Johnston Chrysler Plymouth that the agency will vacate its current location at 19th Street and Grand Avenue and move to a site in Pontoon Beach, near the Chouteau Trace development south of Interstate 270 and west of Illinois 111.

Alan Orthals, director of economic development for the city, said there are no immediate plans for the location currently occupied by Johnston.

He said negotiations have revealed that the two individuals who own the property cannot agree as to the value of the site.

Miller reported interest has also been expressed "in the old fire station, formerly the civil defense building," in the 1400 block of 19th Street downtown. Miller suggested the city advertise for proposals for use of that property as well.

The deadline for proposal submissions is Feb. 22.

Miller said he hopes the city can get a broad picture of the interest in developing downtown locations before taking action, rather than accepting proposals "catch as catch can."

The Madison County Transit District is reported to be negotiating with the city regarding the possibility of locating a bus terminal.

Persian Gulf war taking SILE nursing students

The Persian Gulf War is taking its toll on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Nursing class rolls.

Ten of the 81 nursing students have been called into active military duty and another six are on active or inactive reserve status.

Those ten are one-third of the SILE students called up for active duty.

Instructor Joan Wanzel also has been called to active duty, and three other instructors out of 40 are on either active or inactive reserve status, nursing school officials said.

The students expect to be called up because they are in medical units in the reserve, and those units are needed by the military.

The war won't deplete the nursing school, but instructor

Sandra Forney said the call-ups have upset many students.

"One student waiting to be called is 27-year-old Leslie Ann LaMonte of Carlinville. She served in the U.S. Navy from 1983 to 1987 and is on inactive reserve."

"I can't sleep at night, and many others on inactive reserve can't sleep either because they're wondering when they are going to be called up," LaMonte said.

Eric Thon, 29, of O'Fallon, said they would only get five days' notice to show for duty. Thon served in the Air Force from 1984 to 1988 and is also on inactive reserve.

"I just worry about the short notice because I have two kids and I'm a single parent," LaMonte said. "I don't look in my mailbox for several days at a time because I'm so worried. "We don't have any idea when we will be called," Thon said.

"Once you sign the dotted line, they can call you back at any time," LaMonte said. "I'm willing to serve, but I wish they would give time to prepare."

Shirley Strohmeier, a nursing school adviser, said most nursing students who have been called or may be called live near Scott Air Force Base.

"A lot of people who have worked in medical units in the military go to college to study nursing and increase their skills," Strohmeier said.

Instructors Elizabeth Buck, Rhoda Headley and Phyllis Ringland also may be called to duty. Buck, an Air Force Reserve major from O'Fallon, said she may be called one a ground war begins.

Solace and refuge

Troops feel 'home' at Lambert USO

By Laura J. Hopper
Staff writer

In another time and a different war, mention of the "USO" conjured up visions of Saturday night dances and cheering soldiers greeting entertainer Bob Hope and his traveling entourage.

But today's United States Organizations, such as the one at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport, have a broader and far more important mission than in the 1940s during World War II.

Today's USOs often serve as the only true "home away from home" for military men and women and their family members who may travel with them.

That mission has been put to the test by the war in the Persian Gulf, which has sent thousands of U.S. servicemen to the Saudi Arabian desert—many passing through Lambert's James S. McDonnell USO on the way.

"I like to think of this as a place of solace and refuge in the eye of the Desert Storm," said Lynn Morrissey, executive director of the McDonnell USO.

Located on Lambert's ground floor adjacent to the shoe shine shop and the baggage carousel, the USO provides food, rest and entertainment for soldiers flying in or out of Lambert.

A snack bar, television room, sleeping area and nurse, as well as plenty of books and magazines, gave the USO an appearance of a restful haven in a recent uncharacteristically quiet Friday morning.

But an announcement of a new deployment of soldiers leaving for the Gulf via Lambert brings tumult and turbulence to the organization, Morrissey said.

Recent deployments often have forced volunteers to come up with hundreds of snacks and "care packages" of deodorant, toothbrushes and razors on less than 24 hours notice to provide for departing soldiers.

These resources then must be transported to where the soldiers have gathered, since the USO headquarters usually are too small to contain the crowds.

"We are the world's largest airport USO, but our resources are being taxed beyond measure," Morrissey said.

"Even when it's quiet it can change within a half-hour, depending on flight schedules," said Walt Griesedieck of Florissant, a part-time volunteer at the USO.

But what the USO doesn't need are more volunteers, Griesedieck said.

"With the war going on and the spirit of patriotism, we've got more volunteers than we can handle right now," he said. "We really need donations."

Morrissey confirmed Griesedieck's statement, adding that while many donors send food and other supplies to the USO, the organization actually is in more need of cash gifts.

As a nonprofit agency, the USO receives no funding from the U.S. government or the United Way. Visitors and military personnel never are charged for food, drinks or supplies.

"We really rely completely on the donors," Morrissey said. "In 10 years, we've never had to charge the military, and we have vowed never to get to that point."

Local USO expanding

As U.S. troops continue to head to the Persian Gulf, Lambert-St. Louis International Airport's USO is expanding its headquarters to meet the challenge of serving larger numbers of soldiers and their families.

The construction of a new 500-square-foot wing began in early February, and should be completed sometime in March, said USO Executive Director Lynn Morrissey. The headquarters is located on Lambert's ground floor, adjacent to the shoe shine shop and the airport baggage carousel.

Money to pay for the construction bill will have to be gathered through fund-raising efforts and private contributions, she said. The nonprofit organization receives no government or United Way support.

When a large deportation of troops takes place, USO volunteers march to area grocery stores to buy the necessary goods, which is why Morrissey prefers cash donations to actual items.

Donations by check made out to James S. McDonnell USO can be sent to the USO, P.O. Box 1087, Lambert-St. Louis International Airport, St. Louis, MO, 63145, or call 429-1234.

Throughout the St. Louis area, businesses and groups are joining in the patriotic spirit and helping to raise money for the USO. The latest group to join the effort is the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, which will donate all of its proceeds from a Feb. 22 concert to the USO.

The concert will be held at 8:30 p.m. at Powell Symphony Hall, 719 N. Grand. Tickets are $10 and $5 each.

Bowlers go crazy

CRAZY BOWLERS: Roger Miller (above) exerts caution and lets the ball go through the legs of daughter Stephanie, 8, Saturday at Granite City Bowl during a session of Crazy Bowl. The event was hosted by the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council. Meanwhile, a look of effort crosses the face of Jamie Cassidy, 8, (left) as she bowls in the 10th frame with a ball in her hand and a balloon between her knees. Her father, Bill, looks on. She is a member of Brownie Troop 626. Both girls are from Granite City and members of Brownie Troop 626.

Court bailiff has a way with people and words

Mike Donohoo is seldom at a loss for words.

A Circuit Court bailiff who often sports a Panama hat and likes an occasional cigar, Donohoo has been a familiar figure around the Madison County Courthouse for 13 years.

He is a dispenser of facts and opinions of just about any subject, from music and movies to history and politics; and he's not one to shy away from a good-natured argument.

Delays inherent in court operations provide Donohoo frequent opportunities for banter with judges, lawyers, jurors and others around the courthouse.

"Mike is very knowledgeable in a variety of fields," said Alton attorney Russ Meyer, a close friend. "He's a good judge of people, very perceptive." Meyer added, "He's extremely opinionated, but, if you can show him the error of his reasoning, he may come around."

"Mike's very knowledgeable about many topics," Circuit Judge Charles Romani said. "It makes things interesting."

Bailiffs help conduct court proceedings, maintain order and watch over jurors. Donohoo has worked in about 150 jury trials, including about 20 murder trials. Romani said Donohoo is "one of the best" at working with jurors.

Donohoo, 37, of Wood River, majored in American history as an undergraduate and graduate student at SIUE. He is a photographer and has written articles on food, history and travel for area newspapers.

An avid reader and music buff — he owns 5,000 books and 3,000 records — Donohoo is perhaps the area's leading authority on Cajun food, music and culture.

He became familiar with Cajun foods through his interest in cooking. In turn, that led him to studying Louisiana Cajun culture. He and Meyer first visited the Cajun country of western Louisiana in 1985 and he has returned six times.

He and Meyer founded the Pasa Cajun-French Music Club, a rather informal organization that counts about 100 members in the St. Louis area.

Donohoo's ambition is to own a restaurant, but it probably won't specialize in Cajun food. He said it would feature "good traditional-style Midwestern cooking," with an emphasis on local foods.

The restaurant likely would reflect in some way one of Donohoo's passions: the history and lore of the Mississippi River. Although the river is central to this region's history and development, area people tend to take it for granted, he said.

Instruction in driving scheduled

GRANITE CITY — The 55 Alive Driving Course will be available to Metro East area residents, starting Feb. 26, in Granite City.

The program is designed to increase the older driver's concern for the normal, age-related physical changes of vision, hearing, and reaction time, as they affect driving.

Another goal is to increase awareness of appropriate techniques for driving in today's complex traffic patterns.

The course will be held at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, 4950 Maryville Road, from 7 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 26, Wednesday, Feb. 27, and Thursday, Feb. 28, in Room 316, it was announced.

The cost is a total of $8 for the three-night session.

It can be paid on the first night of the class. Only people who are 55 years of age or older are eligible to enroll.

Most insurance companies will allow a discount on insurance premiums for senior citizens who have taken this class, a spokesman said.

Those who wish further information or to register for the class may call Belleville Area College's Retired Senior Volunteer Program in Granite City at 831-0600, extension 246, between 9:30 a.m. and 12:45 p.m.

Education for AIDS stressed

MARYVILLE — More widespread public understanding of AIDS is being sought by Dr. Steve Nuernberger, pathologist at Anderson Hospital.

There are only three ways in which a person can contract the deadly AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) virus, he said.

AIDS can be transmitted by sexual contact, the transfer of blood or body tissues from an infected patient, or during pregnancy or birth.

"It is through ignorance and fear of the AIDS virus that many myths have circulated about how the disease is transmitted from one person to another," Nuernberger said.

"You cannot get the AIDS virus from a toilet seat in a public restroom, or from telephones, door knobs, towels, cups, bed linens, or furniture."

AIDS is not transmitted by: Mosquitoes or other insects.

Dogs, cats or other domestic pets.

Tears or saliva.

"Social contact, as in kissing, shaking hands, crying, coughing, hugging or sneezing."

Hot tubs, public swimming pools, or dining in restaurants.

"Body massages or public saunas."

The reason we are sure the above-mentioned myths are truly erroneous is that the AIDS virus is highly susceptible to agents outside of the body.

Agents known to kill the AIDS virus include household bleach, disinfectants like Lysol, hydrogen peroxide, ethyl and isopropyl alcohols, and heat.

Heating to 127 degrees F will also kill the virus. In comparison, a body can withstand temperatures to about 112 degrees F before scalding occurs. A normal household water heater is set on 140 degrees F, while a dishwasher's temperature range may be from 160-180 degrees, depending on the model.

Nuernberger said health professionals who deal with the virus on a daily basis have learned to take precautions against the disease.

"And this is something that the general population will have to learn to cope with during the next 10 years," he said.

By the end of 1991, more than 180,000 Americans will have died with AIDS. That is triple the number of servicemen we lost during the Vietnam War.

"We can deal with this enormous problem at home and in our schools, but we will not be able to cope with the numbers in our hospitals. If every AIDS patient were admitted for treatment, there would be no beds for sick kids, heart patients, etc."

Leisure program

"Planning for Family Leisure" will be highlighted by Homemakers Extension Association unit lay teachers at meetings this week. Dates and times include:

Creative Women, 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 18, at the home of Bonnie McArthur, 2191 Clinton Dr., Granite City.

Venice/Madison, 1 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 20, at the Venice Community Center.

COLLECTING FOR THE TROOPS: The Burger King restaurant at 3406 Nameoki Road in Granite City is collecting donations to help U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf War. Those in the service are to receive personal items like shampoo and toothbrushes and such "luxury items" as chewing gum and hard candy. Burger King will give away a free medium-size soda for every donation brought into the restaurant. Managers Diana Wimbisch, left, and Sandy Seymour are shown with the donation bin and some of the items collected so far.

Ostomy group celebrates heart month

The Ostomy Support Group will hold a Valentine's Day party at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 26, in Pascal Hall on the ground floor of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

Instead of candy hearts and flowers, the meeting will focus on the real thing — the cardiovascular system.

In line with Heart Month, Bev Motil, RN, coordinator of St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Cardiorespiratory Rehab Program, will speak.

Her topic will be "The Difference Between Angina and Heart Attack." Blood sugar and blood pressure tests will be available to participants free of charge. Refreshments will be served.

The support group is designed to provide fellowship among people who share a common experience and can provide support to others. It is open to anyone who has had a colostomy, ileostomy or urostomy.

The group provides members with the opportunity to voice concerns and problems and find solutions.

Dispositions

Charges were issued recently by Madison County State's Attorney William Haine against several local residents. They include the following.

- Robert G. Smith, 38, of the 2200 block of Benton, was charged with aggravated sexual criminal abuse. The charge stems from incidents during September and October 1990 when Smith allegedly fondled a girl under age 13. In the charge it was noted that Smith is also known as Leo Gayland Franklin.
- Laura Harper, 28, of the 2200 block of Washington, was charged with residential burglary. Harper allegedly entered a residence in the 2200 block of Washington on Dec. 22 with intent to commit theft.
- Timothy D. Briley, 17, of the 1900 block of Johnson Road, was charged with burglary. The charge stems from the Jan. 21 burglary of the Church of God, 1205 W. Pontoon Road.
- David Brian Cuppett, 18, of the 3000 block of Buxton, was charged with burglary. The charge stems from a Feb. 6 incident in which Cuppett allegedly broke into a 1986 Dodge Aries with intent to commit theft.

Long among candidates for new federal judgeship

Thirteen candidates will be interviewed for the new federal judge post for the Southern District of Illinois.

All candidates will be interviewed by an Illinois State Bar Association committee.

Candidates include Godfrey attorney and former Madison County Republican Chairman J. Thomas Long; U.S. Magistrate Gerald Cohn of Wood River; Godfrey attorney Lewis Mallott; U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess of Belleville; Pope County Circuit Judge Dan Lowry; Washington County Circuit Judge Lloyd Karmel; Jackson County Circuit Judge Phil Gilbert; Randy Patchett of Marion; a former Williamson County state's attorney; Shari Rhode of Murphysboro, a staff attorney for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; Belleville lawyers Harry Sterling, James Cook and Robert Wells; and Metropolis lawyer Philip Frazier.

The bar committee is expected to take about two months to do its interviews and make recommendations to U.S. Rep. Robert Michel, R-Peoria.

U.S. Rep. Robert Michel will interview those he believes are the best candidates and make a recommendation to President George Bush, probably around late April.

Michel will interview those he believes are the best candidates and make a recommendation to President George Bush, probably around late April, Michel aide Ray LaHood said.

Traditionally, the president nominates judges who are recommended by the senior member of his party in the state's congressional delegation. Appointments require U.S. Senate confirmation.

The federal judgeship carries an annual salary of $125,100. The new judge will join three federal judges in the Southern District, which covers about one-third of the state. The extra spot on the federal bench was authorized in a law Bush signed Nov. 29.

Alton attorney John Dale Stobbs has withdrawn his application for consideration.

"I discussed it with my family and I decided I would not be interested at this time and I also felt my law practice is such at this time I couldn't leave it," Stobbs said this week.

Scholarships available

The Granite City Board of Realtors has announced the availability of college scholarships through the Illinois Real Estate Educational Foundation of the Illinois Association of Realtors.

Applications may be obtained at the placement office of Illinois colleges and universities, or by contacting the Granite City Board of Realtors, Attn: Barb Wyatt, P.O. Box 310, Granite City, Ill., 62040, a spokesman said.

The Illinois Real Estate Educational Foundation awards six to 10 scholarships annually. Applications must be completed and submitted by May 1, along with course transcripts and letters of recommendation.

Applications are currently being accepted for the academic scholarships, awarded to select Illinois students attending a higher education institution within Illinois. These scholarships, valued at not less than $1,000, are awarded to encourage Illinois students to further their interests in selecting real estate as a career.

Scholarships of $2,000 or more are available from the Morgan Fitch Fund for Illinois residents who are juniors, seniors, or graduate students in real estate studies at the University of Illinois College of Commerce and Business Administration or the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the Champaign-Urbana campus.

The Fitch Fund was established in memory of Chicago real estate broker Morgan L. Fitch.

He served as president of the Chicago Board of Realtors and also the Illinois and national Associations of Realtors.

Other scholarships of $2,000 or more are available from the Thomas P. Seay Fund, established by Chicago Board of Realtors past president Thomas P. Seay.

Attorney sued for alleged inaction

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — A Granite City woman has filed suit against an attorney, claiming that he failed to file a product liability lawsuit on her behalf.

The lawsuit against the lawyer was filed last week in Madison County Circuit Court by Susan Shisko.

She seeks in excess of $15,000 in damages.

Shisko asserts that she hired Granite City attorney Charles Weitzman on June 27, 1987, to pursue her rights and remedies relative to an on-the-job physical condition.

The suit claims that Shisko provided Weitzman with evidence that her unspecified ailment might be due to the improper design of the check-out stand she worked in at the Schnucks supermarket in Granite City.

The suit alleges that Weitzman failed to exercise a proper standard of skill or expertise by:

Failing to properly and thoroughly investigate Shisko's claim for the possibility of a product liability claim even though she gave him such materials; failing to file such action or, before Feb. 6, 1989, two years after the date given as that of accident or exposure; and failing to conduct an investigation into Shisko's claim, a failure that allegedly has left subsequent attorneys "irrevocably and irreparably handicapped" to file such a claim.

Weitzman declined comment when contacted. He referred calls to a St. Louis attorney, who could not be reached for comment.

2 students die, meningitis suspected

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

A complete joy.

That's how Andy and Carol Mank of Belleville described their son, Greg, 19, a sophomore engineering student at the University of Illinois, who died in an Urbana hospital on Saturday night of a blood infection caused by a meningitis-like bacteria.

"Greg liked making people happy and having a good time," said Chris Wells, his fraternity brother in the U of I's Triangle Engineering Fraternity and his friend. "He was a special person to everyone who knew him."

A second man, Brian McDonnell, from Darien, a Chicago suburb, also a 19-year-old sophomore at the university, died Monday morning from an infection similar to the one which killed Mank, university press reports state.

"Students are very nervous here," said William Riley, dean of students at the university, Monday night.

Students are going to the health center to get antibiotics, and health center officials said students are being screened to see if they need more.

University of Illinois health officials contacted students who knew Greg Mank and distributed the antibiotic Rifampin to students in Mank's fraternity house and to students in his classes as a preventive measure in case any of them had been exposed to the disease that Mank had.

"The mood is pretty somber here," Wells said on Monday.

About 70 students live in the fraternity house where Mank lived. Two buses have been chartered to bring Mank's fraternity brothers and friends to Belleville today, Wednesday, for the funeral at St. Henry's Catholic Church.

"Everybody here is trying to accept what happened," Wells said, adding that the university is keeping in close contact with the fraternity members.

The university had not established any connections between the deaths of Mank and McDonnell as of Monday, but they are looking into the possibility, said Gale Fella, director of the Campaign-Urbana Public Health District.

"Everybody here is trying to accept what happened," Wells said, adding that the university is keeping in close contact with the fraternity members.

The two men both knew a third male student at the university, said Fella. Mank was unaware if the university knew of the connection.

University officials had not been aware of the mutual acquaintance of Mank and McDonnell until told by a Journal reporter.

Riley said Dr. Rodney Kingston, director of clinical services at the university, would follow up on the possible connection between the two men.

Fella said it takes from 24-72 hours to grow a culture to determine if the same type of bacterium was present in both students.

The university has also contacted students who knew, or were in, classes with McDonnell to give them Rifampin and information about symptoms of the disease.

About 1,350 students had been contacted at the university by Monday afternoon, Fella said.

The university has taken an extra step by giving all the students in the classes the antibiotics," he said.

Fella said that normally only people who have had direct contact with the person with the disease are given the antibiotics.

Mank walked into the Carle Foundation Hospital in Urbana about 9:30 a.m. Saturday and he died about 10:00 Saturday night, said Carol Mank, his mother.

"The doctors (at Carle Foundation Hospital) and everyone worked so hard to save him, but it didn't do any good," Carol Mank said.

Only those in close contact with someone who was infected needs the antibiotics, said Dr. William Campbell, an infectious diseases specialist at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis.

Meningitis is a very curable disease if treated early, Campbell added.

"It's carried by people, and getting the flu may drop a person's immunity and allow it to spread into your system," he said.

However, Campbell said it moves rapidly, whenever it gets into the system and is untreated.

Andy Mank asked that donations be made to the Triangle Engineering Fraternity House at the University of Illinois.

The university press release stated concerned parents can contact the Emergency Dean at 217-333-0050.

9 blacks in County Jail file suit

EDWARDSVILLE — Nine black Madison County Jail prisoners have filed a lawsuit against the jail and the Madison County public defender, claiming unfair treatment of blacks.

The suit asked that a judge appoint a panel to investigate alleged discrimination.

Some inmates are refusing meals and apparently eating snack foods in what they call a hunger strike. Lt. Ed Newsome of Madison, jail superintendent, said.

He could not specifically identify which inmates are involved in the snack food strike.

When the protest began last week, as many as 30 prisoners took part, but the number has dwindled, Newsome said. Some were released after their cases were resolved, he said.

Newsome said the hunger strike began over a black inmate's charge that a jailer used a racial slur.

During an investigation by jail personnel, the inmate who made the complaint recanted his story, Newsome said.

Inmate David Brown, jailed on a burglary charge, claimed in the lawsuit jailers have "degraded, insulted and placed upon me mental anguish."

The suit does not specify names of officers who allegedly abused them.

Inmates Nam Clark, David Mason, Robert Clark, Aaron Kyles, Carl Alexander, Royce Belleville, Greg Hicks and Chris Watts joined in the suit.

The striking inmates claim whites stand a "better chance than blacks of being released on recognizance or getting their bonds reduced."

Public Defender John Rekowki agreed blacks are less likely to be released on recognizance or have bond reductions, but he said it has nothing to do with race.

"I think the socio-economic phenomenon is the main reason," Rekowki said. "People in the same socio-economic situation as many blacks are in Madison County are less likely to get recognizance or a bond reduction."

The striking inmates also charge that they don't get to spend enough time with their attorneys.

Dixon, Pentagon at odds over base

U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon predicted Friday that a major command at Scott Air Force Base may lose its autonomy but will keep its designated purpose.

"I confidently believe, following our meeting, we will preserve the mission of the Scott Communications Command," said Dixon, D-Belleville, in a prepared statement released by his office.

Secretary of the Air Force Donald B. Rice had announced Tuesday that the Air Force Communications Command would be redesignated as the Air Force Communications Agency. It would no longer be one of 11 commands in the Air Force.

Rice's announcement said the AFCC's mission would remain the same, but policy-making decisions would be made at the Pentagon.

As part of the transition to an agency, 220 positions throughout the AFCC are being eliminated, said Col. Wayne Corbett, AFCC spokesman.

"We're good soldiers. If they change our orders, then we change and march to those orders," he said.

There are 8,300 positions in the AFCC throughout the Air Force, with Scott employing 1,250 people.

No further information was available on how many positions would be eliminated from Scott.

Dixon had met with Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Merrill A. McPeak in Washington, D.C., early last week to find out why the change from a command to an agency is necessary, Dixon's spokesman, Charles Smith, said.

Dixon says he has several options available to stop or postpone the redesignation if he does not get satisfactory answers from the Air Force, Smith said.

Suit

Stiehl further ruled that the city could not be held liable for any civil rights violations by its police officers unless it could be shown that the violations were the result of a municipal policy.

Stiehl said the suit only alleged that the Woodins were arrested in Granite City by Granite City police officers and that the charges were eventually dropped.

These allegations do not rise to the level of a municipal policy, the ruling says.

After dismissing the civil rights portion of the suit, Stiehl then dismissed the remainder of the suit based on the "failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted."

The Woodins were given 30 days to file an amended suit.

ress and we've had no major problems up to this point," Stiehl said.

Highland, for example, was previously addressed because it already has the 911 service. However, a small area annexed into the city had rural addresses that were never changed, Grogan said. He met with Highland Police Chief William Pierce last week to begin putting those changes into effect.

ter of this year.

E.A. "Bren" Karandjeff Jr., president and chief executive officer of Central Banc System Inc., will be a member of the transition team.

"We are very excited about becoming part of a quality organization like Firstbank. Our business philosophies are very similar and our management shares the same goals," Karandjeff said.

"This combination brings many additional advantages as well," Karandjeff said.

"The geographic distribution that results creates a significant presence in the Metro East marketplace that will provide greater convenience for our customers, as well as other positive operating efficiencies for the combined company."

Firstbank's president and chief executive officer, Mark H. Ferguson, said, "Central's presence in the St. Louis Metro East market, combined with our current operations in that area, will significantly enhance our banking franchise in a market that has long been strategically important to us."

"We are excited about the opportunities to combine talented management teams, consolidate operations and improve the distribution network for our products and services."

Central Banc System Inc. was represented in the transition negotiations by Zemenick & Walker Inc. of St. Louis. It will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Firstbank upon completion of the transaction.

Firstbank's total assets following the merger, along with a previously announced acquisition of PBM Bancorp Inc. of Marion, will exceed $15 billion, according to Zettek. That figure includes more than $420 million in assets in Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties.

Firstbank entered the Metro East market with acquisition of the United Illinois Banks of Collinsville, New Athens and Troy in 1986.

The bank in Troy was merged into Collinsville in 1988, and the bank in New Athens acquired the deposits and Firstbank office of New Athens Federal Savings and Loan in November 1990. Zettek said.

Firstbank of Illinois Co. is one of the largest bank holding companies in downstate Illinois, providing banking, trust and other financial services through its subsidiary banks in 11 counties in central, southern and southwestern Illinois.

area.

"Why would people with that kind of money buy from a little street dealer?" he asked.

"The (daily) newspaper never writes about our DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program, it never writes about Madisonians Against Drugs or about our other positive programs. It acts like we're not doing anything and that's just not true."

While Bridick is quick to discount the enormity of the problem, a neighboring political official, John Henry Williams, said he sees drug sales as growing.

Williams said that in Venice, said the problem is far worse in projects operated by the Madison County Housing Authority. There are one of those in south Madison — the adjacent Garesche and Grenier Homes on Market Street — and three in Venice — Viola Jones, Lee Wright and Venice Homes.

Williams said that outside of East St. Louis, two of the largest areas of crack business are taking place last Weaver and Bissell streets in Venice.

"They're dealing all the time. Anything you want to go I can take you and you can see it."

The Press-Record/Journal reported last October that the county housing authority had obtained a $248,000 grant to help curtail drug activities. The money is to go to off-duty policemen to patrol the various housing units in the county, including those in Madison and Venice.

1991 Variety Club Telethon dedicated to Sammy Davis Jr.

Perry Como, Angie Dickinson, John Forsythe, Artie Johnson and Carol Lawrence will be among the stars featured on The Sammy Davis Jr. Memorial Variety Telethon, which will run from 10:30 p.m. March 2 to 5 p.m. March 3 on KMOV-TV (Channel 4).

This is the 25th anniversary of the broadcast, which raised $1 million for the telethon in 1966. It now raises more than $2 million annually.

This year's telethon is dedicated to Sammy Davis Jr., who headlined the telecast from 1964 until his death in 1990.

"Sammy took us to the top by bringing in major stars like Liza Minnelli, Bob Hope and Jerry Lewis and helping us raise more money to help more kids than ever before," said telethon chairman John H. Londoff.

Other performers making an appearance this year include Tony Randall, Lou Rawls, Dionne Warwick, Jim Byrnes, Liza Minnelli and the Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders. Channel 4's Robin Smith will be the local host; top local performers will round out the cast.

The event includes three related fund-raising activities. They are a production and personnel costs, are covered by Channel 4, Londoff said. The Adams Mark Hotel provides free accommodations for the stars and telethon staff; TWA provides transportation.

"We've accomplished a lot since the first telethon but the needs of Variety's special kids seem to increase every year," Londoff said.

Andrew B. Craig, III, board chairman, chief executive officer and president of Boatbush Branches Inc. and Mrs. William E. Cornelius, well-known St. Louis volunteer, will be honored as Man of the Year and Woman of the Year at the Dinner with the Stars. The dinner and telethon are held in the St. Louis Ballroom of the Adams Mark Hotel.

The telethon's air time, as well as its production and personnel costs, are covered by Channel 4, Londoff said. The Adams Mark Hotel provides free accommodations for the stars and telethon staff; TWA provides transportation.

"We've accomplished a lot since the first telethon but the needs of Variety's special kids seem to increase every year," Londoff said.

Little Miss America contestants sought

Contestants are being sought for the 1991 Illinois Little Miss of America Pageant, to be held in Springfield, at the Prairie Capital Convention Center April 5-7.

All winners and finalists advance to the grand national finals in Hollywood, Calif.

The pageant is open to girls ages 3-15, with five age divisions and boys ages 3-10, with two age divisions. Judging will be based on poise, natural beauty and personality. An optional talent competition will be held on Feb. 10. More than $40,000 in cash and prizes will be awarded at the National Pageant. Many past delegates have landed roles in television commercials, series, films, modeling contracts, plus delegates have appeared on the national program "Star Search."

Little Miss of America is in its 10th year of competition and is designed to help young people develop poise and character while experiencing the spirit of competition.

No experience is required to compete in the state pageant. For entry information call state headquarters at 217-224-6708 or write to Illinois Little Miss of America, 2321 S. 32nd, Quincy, Ill., 62301. March 8, 1991.

Lincoln exhibit at Historical Society

St. Clair County Historical Society's museum at 701 Washington St. in Belleville is displaying a variety of pieces relating to Abraham Lincoln.

The exhibit is scheduled through February, Lincoln's birthday month, and is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, or other times by appointment.

Visitors can see an original, signed letter of Lincoln's and a collection of art and print portraits depicting varied perceptions of him.

Materials describe Lincoln's several trips to Belleville, his speeches and support of a permanent newspaper in Belleville. An entertaining account is given of a Belleville servant whose duty was to polish Lincoln's boots during his visit.

Time for answers on student aid

February has been proclaimed financial aid awareness month in Illinois by Gov. Jim Edgar.

In observance, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has scheduled a number of activities, including informational workshops for prospective and continuing students, high school students, interested parents, and others wishing to learn of student loans, scholarships and grants, and how to apply for them.

The schedule of activities planned by SIUE includes:
Feb. 15 — Minority Transfer Day at SIUE. Financial aid presentations, 9-45 to 10:45 a.m. and noon to 1:30 p.m. Sponsored by the SIUE Office of Recruitment.
Feb. 19 — Financial Aid Program for Parents and Students, Madison High School, 6:30 p.m.
Feb. 20 — Financial Aid Program for SIUE faculty and staff, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., Center for Management Studies, Room 3102, Classroom Building II.

In addition to the SIUE Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance staff, William Meyer, financial planning consultant with Edward D. Jones and Company, and Deanna Elme, assistant director of the Financial Aid Office at Washington University in St. Louis, will be on hand to answer questions about financial aid for college and university students. Sponsored by the SIUE Center for Management Studies.

Feb. 25 — Financial Aid Presentation, Commons Building at Tower Lake Apartments, 7 p.m.

All workshops, presentations and College Nights are free and open to the public.

During the week of Feb. 11-15, the Illinois Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators is sponsoring a toll-free hotline number in Chicago at the State of Illinois Center to answer questions from students and parents, concerning loans, scholarships and grants available to students.

The hotline number,

1-800-628-7939, is staffed by financial aid professionals from around the state.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting a high school counselor or the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance at SIUE, 682-3880, for specific details on federal, state and institutional financial aid programs.

Granite City artist featured at center on Valentine Day

Paintings by Granite City artist Larry Smothers will be displayed during "A Most Romantic Evening" on Valentine's Day at the Gateway Center in Collinsville.

Smothers, who is self taught, began painting acrylic still life and landscapes in 1975.

In 10 years he became so successful he was able to retire from his job and devote full time to his art career.

Smothers travels to art shows throughout the nation, garnering many awards and much critical praise, and commands upwards of $5,000 for some of his works.

Smothers' works will be displayed on a festively decorated

Parisian street as he joins a host of musicians and entertainers appearing at the event.

Tickets at $25 per person may be obtained at the Gateway Center, One Gateway Drive in Collinsville, 345-9127.

Warriors survive Alton seesaw

ALTON — The Warriors and Alton Redbirds played on the seesaw Saturday. Fortunately for Bill Ohlendorf's desperate team, it finished on top.

Granite City started fast, went cold, then caught fire again and held off a late Alton challenge to post an 84-80 Southwestern Conference victory. The Warriors (4-4 in SWC play, 10-1 overall) came from 12 points down in the third quarter and hung on to win a game they couldn't afford to lose.

"We really needed this one," said Ohlendorf. "We were a little desperate after the loss at Belleville West."

Bob Thomas has been the Warriors' most consistent player during their recent slump, and he led the way again with 21 points Saturday, including the clutching free throw in the final seconds. A four-point lead was important because the Redbirds kept the Warriors with three-point shots. K.C. Doucette had 30 points for Alton (4-3, 8-11), including six treys.

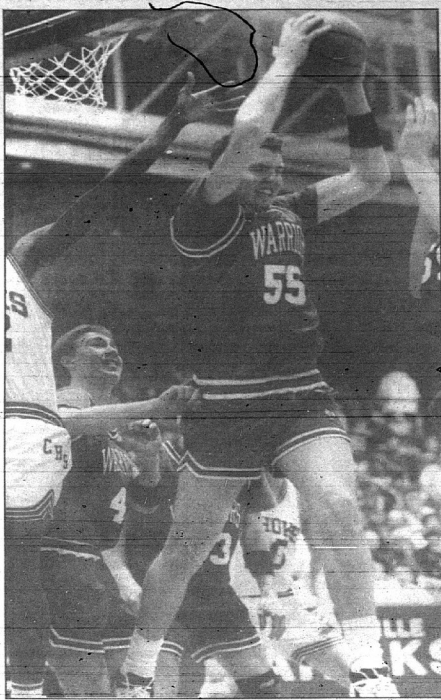

"We're just not willing to extend out on defense enough," said Ohlendorf. "But Doucette was scoring even when we covered him. We went to the box and one on him a couple times and he was hurting us."

The Redbirds led 50-38 with 6:25 left in the third quarter, but the Warriors went on a 19-6 run capped by a basket from Skip Anderson (13 points). Alton took a 51-50 lead, but Thomas hit a three-pointer to give the Warriors a 62-61 lead after three quarters.

Doucette then hit for 13 of Alton's 19 points in the fourth quarter, but the Warriors hung on. He hit a pair of three-pointers to bring the Redbirds to within 79-77 with 1:07 left. Thomas hit one free throw, then Justin Holloway made another three-pointer before Brian Smith (10 points) hit two free throws before David Quigley missed a potential game-winning three-point shot with nine seconds left. Thomas free throw clinched it.

Ohlendorf has been very consistent ever since the Salem Tour-

JEFF SMITH of the Warriors comes down strong with a rebound.

nameant," said Ohlendorf. "He and the others hit some big free throws. We missed some, but we made enough. We stuck the ball inside and got them to eight fouls pretty quickly in the second half."

The Warriors play in Edwardsville on Friday and East St. Louis on Saturday.

Jason Mathenia

Mathenia accepted by ambassadors group

Jason Mathenia, a senior at Granite City High School, has been accepted by the East-West Soccer Ambassadors.

East-West Soccer Ambassadors is a non-profit organization with an international reputation for excellence focusing on player development and athletic diplomacy between cultures. Mathenia, who played varsity soccer for the Warriors, will be given the opportunity to play this summer in the Italy Cup and the Austria Cup representing the United States Under 19 team.

With a one-week training camp in Germany, Mathenia is hoping to raise enough funds to afford expenses.

State basketball tournaments to be aired on Channel 24

By Dennis Barnidge
Staff writer

Getting to the Illinois state basketball championships used to be like the old joke about getting to Carnegie Hall. The only way anyone in the St. Louis metropolitan area could get there was practice, practice, practice.

Or drive, drive, drive.

KNLC-TV (UHF channel 24) will change that this year, the 40th anniversary of the first televised broadcast of the state championship. The Christian Broadcasting station recently finalized a deal with KOST Broadcasting to carry the Class A and AA boys and girls finals from Assembly Hall at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

"It's been a lot of years since St. Louis has seen the state finals," said Jim O'Boyle, a KOST executive.

A lot of years, in this case, is six. That was the last time the title games were carried on cable network staple WGN out of Chicago.

The AA girls final will be carried live at 3 p.m. Feb. 23. The other boys and girls championship games will be broadcast on a delayed basis at 11:30 p.m. the night of the game. The girls A championship is also Feb. 23, the boys A final on March 9 and the boys AA championship on March 16.

Kost officials in Chicago said the telecasts of the girls A final, and both boys title games are available live, but KNLC opted to use the telecasts on a delayed basis.

No local broadcasters will work the title games. Kost, which has a three-year broadcast rights deal with the Illinois High School Association, will use Brian Wheeler and Karen Stack of Chicago on both the girls games. Jim Albrecht of the Quad Cities, Dick Ludke of Bloomington and Greg Starrick of Marion will work the boys A tournament. Dan Roan and Ken McReynolds of Chicago and Tom Stocker of Memphis, Tenn., will handle the broadcast duties for the AA title contest.

day's game after receiving a game misconduct for high-sticking Derek Zirkelbach during Saturday's game. So, the Spartans (11-12) only had eight skaters available Monday. They had beaten Vianney (6-13-2) 7-6 on Friday in a preliminary round game.

"I don't like to run the score up on anybody," said Henson. "But I told the players before the game that we weren't going to have any problems. I just wanted them to work on the things we need to do. I gave everybody plenty of ice time."

Zirkelbach had four goals and three assists in the two games while Jack Chandler had three goals and five assists. Chad St. Peters, Kevin Sifton and Dave Ezell all had five points in Monday's game. Chandler had three goals Monday, while Sifton, St. Peters, Larry Wright and Zirkelbach each had two. Ezell, Chris Goclan, Mike Jaro and Nathan Weaver had the other goals.

Zirkelbach had three goals Saturday, while St. Peters, Weaver, Doug Turner, Goclan, Jaro and Wright scored the others. The Warriors outshot Hazelwood East 93-16 over the two games. Robbie Nolan was in goal Saturday and Brent Golden played Monday. Baker scored the Spartans' only goal Saturday when it was a 2-1 game in the first period.

Granite City scored six goals in the first period Monday, including three in the first minute and a half. Weaver's goal with 2:40 left ended the game due to league rules which stop a game when one team gains a 15-goal lead.

Assuming DeSmet wins Tuesday's game, the first game of the quarterfinals will be at North County at 9:15 p.m. Friday. The second game will be Monday at a site yet to be determined.

DeSmet is one of the perennial league powers, and the Spartans feature several of the league's top players in Danny Kelly, Brent Wiley, Andy McMillan and goalie Scott Bokal.

"Their strength is their forwards," said Henson. "Their weakness is defense. We'll play mainly two lines and try to pressure their defense. We just want to make a good showing. There's always a chance. We've got a few guys who can play. But we'll need to stay out of the penalty box and get good goaltending. The bad thing about this first series is we didn't face many shots."

Sectional

sending six to state. The Comanches lived up to their billing by crowning four champions and qualifying individuals at the sectional. Donald Roberts (42-0 at 145 pounds) led the way by going over time to beat Brad Gardner of Springfield Southeast 16-7 in one of the most entertaining matches of the day.

Getting six wrestlers out of the sectional makes me feel ecstatic," said Chahokia coach Kevin Bement. "I figured we could get our four big guns (Roberts, Joe Ward, Roger Harris and Maurice Hickman) out, but Donnie (Thomas, 152) and Roger (Williams, 171) sweetened the pot by earning third-place finishes."

Ward was quite a story himself. After missing all of last season with a career-threatening neck injury, the senior battled his way to Champaign by claiming the title at 125. He got by Curt Bee of Springfield Lanphier 16-10 to fulfill his season-long dream.

Bellefonte West claimed one champion (heavyweight Rozell Baker) and qualified four wrestlers for the state tournament. Bellefonte East also sent four wrestlers to state, including Joe Weir, who remained unbeaten at 38-0 while claiming the title at 160.

Derek Baugh (39-0 at 171) was Edwardsville's lone representative for the state tournament as he pinned Matt Dahm of Belleville East in 2:56. Collinsville, which sent five wrestlers to the sectional, got blanked in the two-day event. Steve Trimble (145) of Collinsville's final hope on Saturday, lost his third-place match to Joshua Calvert of Quincy, 10-3.

The state tournament begins Friday at 11 a.m. The two-day event concludes on Saturday with the semifinals and final rounds.

More on Granite City's state-bound quartet will appear in Thursday's Press-Record.

Girls

beat Jerseyville. You can't afford to look past anyone. Our girls came out and played their best opening quarter of the year. That gave us a big advantage against a fundamentally strong team."

Shenterria Evans and Angenette Sumrall ignited the offense by combining for 12 quick points as Lincoln built a 13-0 lead. Meanwhile, Jerseyville (22-5) couldn't buy a basket. The Panthers, who had been scoreless for nearly 10 minutes, finally got on the board when Tricia Ivers hit two free throws with 6:43 to play in the first half.

"We couldn't get a shot off in the opening period," Jerseyville coach Denise Kallal said. "Their defense was tremendous. Our girls couldn't penetrate the lane and that forced us to move the ball around the perimeter. They forced us into a lot of turnovers."

The Panthers turned the ball over eight times in the opening quarter and 13 times in the first half as Lincoln built a 29-10 cushion at the intermission. And all that happened with Lincoln's leading scorer, Raquel Ransom, held scoreless in the first half. She finished with eight points.

"To have a decent team, you can't depend on one player to carry your club," McDonald said. "That's why we stress certain roles to all of our players. We find their strong points and try to intensify those areas in game situations. We were prepared to play tonight and picked up the slack for Raquel. It also helped us to produce an exceptional first quarter."

Jerseyville never got any closer than 16 points the rest of the way. Sumrall led the Tigerettes with 16 points, while Evans chipped in with 12. Lincoln, which outrebounded Jerseyville 51-16, had nine different players do it.

"Their size killed us," Kallal said. "We had no one, especially on the weak side, to match up with them."

and pulled down 18 rebounds. Mosby had 13 assists.

Venice hasn't lost in the 1991 calendar year. The Red Devils' last loss was New Year's Eve to O'Fallon in the Freeburg Tournament final. They play at Math & Science Institute (14-5) in St. Louis tonight, then close out the regular season at East St. Louis Lincoln (9-9) on Friday. The Devils open regional play in Duplo against Freeburg on Tuesday.

SUE likely to get some Olympic Festival events

Some of America's top amateur athletes may be coming to Madison, St. Clair and Jersey counties during the 1991 U.S. Olympic Festival.

The Metro-St. Louis Festival Organizing Committee has slated Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville as a tentative site for wrestling and track and field and as a possible site for baseball.

Organizers plan to use the Great River Road for bicycling time trials, festival committee spokesman Andy Woods said.

"Everything could change by 1994, but that's what the committee submitted in the proposal to the U.S. Olympic Committee," Woods said.

James Buck, SIUE's vice president for development and public affairs, said St. Louis selection Friday by the Olympic Committee is a major coup.

"It's a great thing for SIUE, and it's a great thing for the entire St. Louis area," he said. "It is one of the first coordinated efforts between Illinois and Missouri and it bodes well for the future."

Buck said the SIUE-Vadala-base center is almost assured of being the wrestling site because of SIUE's experience with wrestling tournaments.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division II wrestling championships were at the center in 1986 and 1987.

Whether SIUE will be the track site remains to be seen. It would have to build a new stadium with seating for about 10,000 people.

The U.S. Olympic Committee wants the track events at Washington University because most of the athletes will live there during the festival, Woods said.

Washington U. also has an advantage because its track needs only to be reconstructed. SIUE's track is not suitable for major events, Woods said.

"If SIUE and the state of Illinois come up with a world-class track-and-field facility, we will hold it there," Buck said.

It would have to pay for a new stadium at SIUE. Private donations are another option.

"I don't know how willing the state will be to provide money because of its (financial) situation," he said.

State Sen. Sam Vadala-base, D-Edwardsville, said the legislature would discuss the stadium, and that he would meet with SIUE President Earl Lazerson and Gov. Jim Edgar on the project.

Mike Lawrence, Edgar's press secretary, said the governor supports the project. "It's too early to tell what financial support the state could give."

SIUE officials have not determined the cost. "That's something we'll be looking at now that St. Louis has the festival," Buck said.

Dale Neuburger, assistant athletic director of the joint Indiana University-Purdue University campus in Indianapolis, said the 12,000-seat track stadium building for the 1992 U.S. Olympic Festival there cost $5.5 million.

"I don't know how much it would cost to build it now," he said.

SIUE's Roy E. Lee Field may be used for baseball. Busch Stadium probably won't be used because the U.S. Olympic Committee prefers grass fields over artificial turf, Woods said.

The U.S. Cycling Federation held its 1990 Missouri District Time Trial Championships on the Great River Road between Alton and Grafton.

Michael Murray, a Missouri district representative, said the road is "a perfect site" for time trials because it is smooth and winds are predictable.

The festival committee also plans to hold weightlifting events at Belleville Area College and yachting on Carlyle Lake.

Emerson bill would make English official language

By Jung-Nung Chang
Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON—Rep. Bill Emerson, R-Mo., said his bill to make English the official language of the United States would be "the key to opportunity" for persons not in America's mainstream.

Emerson's Language of Government Act has 52 co-sponsors, including Reps. Ike Skelton, D-Mo., and Mel Hancock, R-Mo. Emerson said he will press for an early hearing, a hearing schedule will be set in early March.

"Knowledge of English is a key to opportunity in America, and those who don't speak English have only a limited number of doors available to them," Emerson said, speaking at a news conference sponsored by U.S. English, a nonprofit organization with about 400,000 members.

Some states already have adopted English as the official language, and more than half, including Missouri, recently introduced legislation calling for the move. Only eight states have not initiated the move.

A growing demand that the government function in multiple languages—more than 150 languages now are spoken in the United States—could hinder communication, say Emerson and other supporters of the federal legislation. As examples, proponents cite Canada, where different segments of the population use English and French, Belgium and Sri Lanka.

Adoption of English as an official language not only would protect important channels of communication, but would make government focus on services rather than waste time attempting to overcome language barriers, they say.

The use of English also would allow people who otherwise might not learn English to better communicate in states like Missouri, where there is not a large number of non-English speaking people, proponents say.

Emerson noted "a burgeoning movement" of opposition to the legislation. One of the key opponents is Rep. Jose E. Serrano, D-N.Y., a congressman from the Bronx, a borough in New York City.

"Why are Americans who can speak two or more languages a threat?" Serrano asked in a "dear colleague" letter earlier in this session of Congress. "In today's global economy and multinational instant communications, educators and business leaders agree that tragically all too few Americans are fluent in a second language."

However, Emerson said an official language would help lower rather than set up barriers.

"Americans must use our common language to develop a fundamental and open means of communication to break down artificial language barriers, to explore our many cultures and traditions and to help define our national identity," he said.

"For the sake of unity or simplicity, more than half of the world's governments function in a single language, but it doesn't mean they prohibit the use of more than one language."

Emerson said he is of German extraction on his mother's side of the family, but that his grandparents did not speak German in public.

"They didn't hang up on German," he said. "They were anxious to get into the mainstream as quickly as possible. They wanted to learn English as quickly as they could. They wanted to communicate with everyone."

Ronald Saunders, executive director of U.S. English, said it is a mistake to consider language the same as race or national origin. "If we use a common language, then we have a share of community," he said.

Saunders also said he thinks the multilingual system is dangerous to the function of the governmental systems because it would become an issue of language rather than service. "We suddenly have a new class of rights, not an individual's rights but language rights," he said.

Saunders cited a January Gallup survey commissioned by U.S. English. Results show broad support for official English laws, with 86 percent of Republicans, 73 percent of Democrats and 74 percent of independents in favor.

Ninety-five percent of Americans said that designating an official language of government would not discriminate against their family. Of respondents with a native language other than English, 88 percent said the laws would not discriminate against them or their families.

According to the survey, 55 percent of the public believes that bilingual education should allow a child to use his or her native language until learning English, while 37 percent want to extend programs to maintain the child's native language.

Of families with a first language other than English, 55 percent want to stress English acquisition and 36 percent believe that native language maintenance is the ideal role of such programs.

"If bilingual education programs fail to teach English effectively, children will continue to be segregated along language lines, and their transition into the educational and social mainstream will be obstructed," Saunders said.

Medicare only pays for some nursing homes

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

Q: My neighbor's father was in a nursing home for several weeks and Medicare paid for it. Yet Medicare has told us that they will not pay for my father's nursing home bill. Why does Medicare pay for some but not others?

A: It depends on the type of facility giving the care and the kind of care needed. Medicare doesn't help pay for custodial care. That is, care that is primarily for the purpose of meeting personal needs like feeding, dressing or bathing a patient. In other words, care could be provided by people without special skills or training. So Medicare does not help pay for stays in a regular nursing home.

But Medicare does cover some stays in a Medicare certified skilled-nursing facility. These facilities have the staff and equipment to provide skilled nursing care or rehabilitation services and related services.

After a patient has been in the hospital for a while to be treated for an illness or injury, he may need daily skilled-nursing care or rehabilitative services. But he may no longer need to be in the hospital.

In that situation, he might be transferred to a skilled-nursing facility to get additional needed services. Medicare will pay the full cost of the first 20 days in a skilled-nursing facility and all but $76.50 per day of the bill for the 21st through the 100th day.

Q: I know that a copy of the W-2 Forms for my employees goes to Social Security, but there are several offices listed in the phone book. Which office should I send them to?

A: If your business is in Missouri the address is Social Security Administration, Salinas, Calif. 90011. For Illinois businesses it's Social Security Administration, Albuquerque, N.M. 87180. Whatever you do, don't send W-2s to your local Social Security office or the IRS.

Give your employees copies of their W-2s by the end of January. Send Social Security's copies, with a W-3 Transmittal form, to the proper address by the end of February.

Do your best to make sure each form is correct because the information on them will determine the amount of future Social Security benefits for your employees.

Q: I had gall bladder surgery late last year. After looking over the Explanation of Medicare Benefits I think the doctor charged me for services I did not receive. What can I do?

A: Call your doctor and try to resolve the discrepancy. It could be an honest mistake. If you still suspect that incorrect charges have been made there's a toll-free hot line you can call to report it.

The number is for the Inspector General for the Department of Health and Human Services. That office handles cases of alleged fraud or abuse of the Medicare program. The telephone number is 1-800-368-5779.

Send your questions about Social Security to Bill Hunot, St. Louis News Service, 120 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 100, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

Many home expenses can pay off big at tax time

Taxes can hit you right where you live. But if you own your home, many of your expenses can reduce your tax bill.

Real-estate taxes: mortgage interest and replacing a roof are some expenses that affect your taxes by increasing your itemized deductions or reducing a gain on the sale of your home.

Buying Your Home:

Basis: Basis is a way of measuring your investment for tax purposes. It is important to know your basis when selling a home or figuring a loss as a result of a casualty. An explanation of "basis" may be found in Publication 551, Basis of Assets.

Points: You may deduct qualifying points if the loan is used to buy or improve your main home. The additional requirements that must be met to take this deduction may be found in IRS Publication 530, Tax Information for Homeowners.

Closing Costs: Your portion of property taxes paid at settlement is deductible.

Owning Your Home:

Home Improvement and Repair Records: Keep receipts for your home improvements. They will be added to your basis. Repairs for ordinary upkeep such as painting or gutter repair are not deductible.

However, if you pay these costs as part of a remodeling or restoration project, the entire cost is considered "home improvement" and is ordinarily an addition to the basis.

Mortgage interest: You may deduct qualifying mortgage interest as an itemized deduction on Schedule A (Form 1040). See Publication 936, Limits on Home Mortgage Interest Deduction, for any restrictions that may apply to you.

Taxes: The qualifying assessed property tax you pay is an itemized deduction listed on Schedule A (Form 1040). Be sure the deduction is for the qualifying assessed property tax, not the amount placed in escrow by your lender to cover property tax.

Casualty and Theft Losses: Although limited, personal property less due to casualty or theft may be deductible. Insurance reimbursements will affect the deduction. Publication 530, Tax Information for Homeowners, discusses deductible loss and how to calculate it.

Selling Your Home: Postponement of Tax: Generally, paying the tax on the gain from the sale of your main home may be postponed if you buy a new home within two years before or after the sale and if the purchase price is at least as much as the adjusted sales price of the old home.

Selling Expenses: Selling expenses include commissions, advertising, loan charges (seller's points) and legal fees. These expenses are subtracted from the selling price of your old home in order to determine your realized gain, which is the amount you must spend on your next home in order to postpone the tax on any gain.

Fixing-up Expenses: Decorating and repairs done in order to sell your home may affect the amount of gain on which the tax is postponed, but the costs can't be deducted from actual profit. Publication 523, Tax Information on Selling Your Home, covers all the limitations to fixing-up expenses and many other tax issues related to selling your home.

Many IRS publications discuss the tax consequences of homeownership and other related issues. To order free publications and forms, call toll-free 1-800-829-3676. A few listed below: Publications 504, Forms of Interest to the Homeowner; Publication 523, Tax Information on Selling Your Home; Publication 530, Tax Information for Homeowners (including Owners of Condominiums and Cooperative Apartments); Publication 545, Interest Expense; Publication 551, Basis of Assets.

Publication 557, Business Use of Your Home; Mortgage Interest Deduction; Publication 936, Limits on Home Mortgage Interest Deduction; Form 219, "Sale of Your Home."

Checking it over twice for quick refunds

More than eleven million federal income tax returns for 1989 had taxpayers errors.

These kinds of mistakes can add two weeks or more to the normal eight-week processing time. If you take time to double check your return for these common errors, a speedy refund may be your reward.

These five most common errors make up more than half of all taxpayers' errors on their federal tax returns.

Entry on wrong line, 8.3 percent.
No entry necessary, 7.7 percent.
Incorrect entry, 19.1 percent.
Omitted entry, 30.7 percent.
Math error, 17.4 percent.

Breakup may impact on taxes

A divorce or separation changes many aspects of your life, including your taxes. Filing status, exemptions for dependents, alimony and child support payments are a few of the issues to consider.

Marital Status:

Your marital status affects your filing status and influences the deductions and credits which you may claim. On the last day of the tax year, you are generally considered unmarried if you have a legal separation under:

a decree of divorce or a decree of separate maintenance.

Claiming Dependents: Generally, you may claim an exemption for persons, such as children or relatives, who meet the dependency tests. If you're divorced or legally separated, a dependent child may be claimed by only one parent. You may claim your children if:

you are the custodial parent and the dependency requirements are met or if you are the noncustodial parent and the custodial parent has signed Form 8332, "Release of Claim to Exemption of Child of Divorced or Separated Parents," or similar statement.

Decrees or written agreements before 1985 have special provisions.

Income and Deductions:

Alimony and separate maintenance payments must be included in the recipient's income and may be deducted from the payor's income on his or her tax return.

Child support payments are not considered income to the recipient nor are they a deduction for the payor. Legal fees and court costs for getting a divorce are not deductible. However, if the legal fees included tax advice relating to your divorce, that portion may be an itemized deduction.

For a detailed discussion on tax topics relating to divorced or separated taxpayers, order Publication 504, Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals, by calling the IRS toll-free number, 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

Chocolate indulgence comes from heart and hearth

Treat that lover to a sliver of the ultimate indulgence—a creamy, fudge-like filling in a cocoa crust.

Everything is rich, but not tricky in this recipe. The recipe calls for using an 11-inch pan with removable bottom.

Melting the squares of chocolate is simple if care is taken to avoid putting the chocolate in contact with water or high heat.

To melt chocolate: In double boiler: Melt chocolate squares in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water.

Over direct heat: Use a heavy saucepan. Melt chocolate over low heat, stir constantly.

In microwave oven: Place squares of chocolate in shallow glass container. For 1 square (1 ounce) chocolate, microwave on high power 1 to 2 minutes, stirring once. Add 10 seconds for each additional square of chocolate. Stir often.

Decadent Chocolate Tart Crust

1 cup plus 2 tbsp. flour
1/4 cup sugar

1/4 cup cocoa
1/4 cup (1 stick) butter
1 egg, beaten
2 tsp. vanilla

Filling

4 oz. semisweet chocolate
3 oz. bitter chocolate
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
1/4 cup sugar
2 eggs, plus 2 egg whites, separated
1/4 cup dark chocolate liqueur
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups whipping cream
Candied violets, if desired

For crust, combine flour, 1/4 cup sugar and cocoa in large bowl. Cut in 1/2 cup butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in beaten egg and 2 teaspoons vanilla until mixture stiff. Chill, wrapped in plastic wrap, 1 to 2 hours for handling ease.

Roll dough on surface lightly sprinkled with cocoa to 13-inch diameter circle. Carefully fit into 11-inch tart pan with removable bottom. Trim edges. Prick bottom, side of dough with fork tines.

Bake in 375° oven 18 to 20 minutes until dough feels fairly firm to touch and pulls away from side of pan. Cool completely on rack.

For filling, melt semisweet and bitter chocolate and 1/4 cup butter. Remove from heat. Stir in 2 eggs and 2 egg whites. Cool slightly. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites into chocolate mixture. Fold in liqueur and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Whip 1 1/2 cups whipping cream until soft peaks form. Fold into chocolate mixture. Turn into cooled crust. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. To serve, remove side from pan, place on serving plate. Whip remaining 3/4 cup cream until stiff. Pipe through pastry tube fitted with fluted tip on top of tart.

An Enriched Macaroni Product

Win one of 90 $50 gift certificates!

Back in 1901, John Ravarino and A. Joseph Freschi started the R-F Pasta Company with just one thing in mind: to make the best pasta you can buy. Ninety years later it's this area's favorite brand—the brand still made on The Hill.

So we'd like to say thanks by letting you celebrate, too.

Just enter our 90th Birthday Party Sweepstakes. If we draw your name you'll win one of 90 $50 gift certificates you can use at your favorite grocery store.

Plus, everyone's a winner with our coupon below!

Watch for more of our birthday celebration later this year.

OFFICIAL RULES: This promotion is open to all residents of Missouri or Illinois. Employees of R-F Foods, its affiliates, agents, advertising or promotional agencies and the immediate families of each are not eligible. No purchase necessary. Entry period: February 13, 1991, to February 19, 1991. Entry must include this entry form (R-F symbol) from any one pound or larger R-F Pasta product (not frozen). This promotion begins February 13, 1991 and is scheduled to end April 13, 1991, unless earlier terminated by sponsor. Entries must be received by April 13, 1991. One random drawing will be held on April 13, 1991. The grand prize is one $50 gift certificate. Ninety $50 gift certificates will be awarded. Total approximate retail value of all available prizes: $4,500. Less one prize per household. All prizes will be awarded. All prizes are non-transferable and non-refundable for cash. No prize substitutions except at sole discretion of sponsor. By entering this sweepstakes, entrants release sponsor from all claims of liability regarding the sweepstakes, prize, or prize. COFFEECAKE makes a heartfelt expression of a baker's affection for Valentine's Day.

Surprise sweetheart with cherry coffeecake

Love is in the air. There is no better way to show how much one cares than to bake homemade Cherry Sweet Heart Coffeecake.

The tender yeast dough surrounds a sweet cherry filling. Crowned with a buttery streusel topping and drizzled with a vanilla glaze, this heart-shaped coffeecake will win the hearts of ones who know and who don't know that the cook loves them.

Thanks to the ease and goodness of frozen bread dough, a coffeecake never has been so simple. It comes complete with a sweet cherry filling, gets a streusel topping that bakes into the cake and is finished with confectioner's sugar glaze. For other occasions, a differently shaped pan may be used. In warm area until double and fills entire pan. For quick rising, place coffeecake in oven that has been preheated to 140°, then turned off.

For streusel topping, mix together flour, 3 tablespoons granulated sugar and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. With pastry blender or knife, cut in 2 tablespoons butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs.

With end of wooden spoon, make about 10 holes in coffeecake after it has risen fully. Fill holes with additional 1/4 cup fruit filling. Top coffeecake with streusel topping.

Place cake pan on cookie sheet. Bake in 375° oven 25 to 35 minutes. Cool on wire rack.

To make glaze, combine confectioner's sugar with milk and vanilla. Drizzle over cake.

Cherry Sweet Heart Coffeecake

- 1 loaf (1 lb.) frozen bread dough
- 1 cup cherry or other fruit flavor pie filling or jam
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted

Streusel Topping

- 2 tbsp. flour
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 3 tbsp. granulated sugar
- 2 tbsp. brown sugar

Glaze

- 1 cup confectioner's sugar
- 1/4 cup milk or cream
- 1 tsp. vanilla

Let dough thaw until pliable. On lightly floured surface roll into 16-by-8-inch rectangle. If dough shrinks back after rolling, roll dough as far as it will go, let dough rest a few minutes, then roll again.

Evenly spread 1/2 cup jam over rectangle. Sprinkle 1/4 cup granulated sugar and 1/4 cup brown sugar over jam. Drizzle 2 tablespoons melted butter over sugar.

Starting from long edge, roll up dough jellyroll-fashion. Seal edges.

Coil log of dough seam-side down in greased 9-inch heart-shaped cake pan. Let dough rise fully. Fill holes with additional 1/4 cup fruit filling. Top coffeecake with streusel topping.

Place cake pan on cookie sheet. Bake in 375° oven 25 to 35 minutes. Cool on wire rack.

To make glaze, combine confectioner's sugar with milk and vanilla. Drizzle over cake.

Fruited Bread Pudding

- 6 cups bread cubes (1/2 inch cubes)
- 5 eggs
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 1/2 cups lowfat or skim milk
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1/2 cup cinnamon
- 1/2 cup nutmeg
- 1 can (16 oz.) chunky mixed fruit in juice, well drained
- 1/2 cup raisins

Vanilla frozen yogurt, if desired. Spread bread on jellyroll pan. Bake in 400° oven about 5 minutes until golden.

Mix eggs and sugar in medium bowl. Mix in milk, vanilla, cinnamon and nutmeg. Pour milk mixture over bread cubes in 2-quart casserole. Gently stir in fruit and raisins. Let stand 15 minutes. Stir gently.

Place casserole in roasting pan on oven rack. Add 1 to 2 inches hot water to pan. Bake, uncovered, in 300° oven about 1 1/2 hours until pudding is set; sharp knife inserted halfway between center and edge will come out clean.

Serve warm with frozen yogurt. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Sweet Cherry-Nut Tart

- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 pkg. dry yeast
- 2 tbsp. plus 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. vanilla
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 cup chopped pecans, toasted
- 1 tsp. milk
- 1/2 tsp. almond extract
- 2 cans (16 oz. each) pitted sweet cherries, drained, save 1/2 cup juice
- 4 tsp. cornstarch

Sifted confectioner's sugar. In small mixing bowl, combine sour cream, egg yolk, yeast, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and vanilla. Let stand about 10 minutes. In medium bowl, cut margarine into flour until pieces are size of small peas. Make well in center. Add yeast mixture. Stir until combined. Wrap dough in plastic wrap. Chill at least 2 hours.

Press dough evenly over bottom and 1 1/2 inches up side of 9-inch springform pan. Bake in 350° oven 15 minutes.

For nut filling, combine pecans, 1/2 cup sugar, milk and almond extract. Evenly spoon filling over partially baked crust. Bake 15 to 20 minutes more until crust is golden.

In large saucepan, combine cherries, 1/2 cup juice and 1/4 cup sugar. Stir in cornstarch. Cook, stirring, until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir 2 minutes more.

Spoon cherry mixture over nut filling. Cool on wire rack. Remove edge of pan. Sift confectioner's sugar over tart just before serving.

Family

Holy Family seniors pray for soldiers

At the January meeting of the Holy Family Young at Heart Club, called to order by President Irma Manning, the Rev. William Fisher, pastor, led prayers for those serving our country, for the families, for prisoners of war, and for a quick and just peace.

Fisher invited participation and support of the following parish activities.

Members were asked to help serve and donation or pastries to parish fish fries for each Friday during Lent.

Following Father's remarks, the president led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Billie Schuler, recording secretary. The treasurer's report was given by Marge King. Elizabeth McCoy, membership, reported 63 in attendance and that 52 had paid their 1991 dues.

Cleola Siebert, corresponding secretary, read thank-you notes from priests and sisters for their Christmas gifts and from Elizabeth McCoy for the cards and calls received during her illness.

Rose Juhasz, friendship, sent three get-well and four sympathy cards.

Those celebrating birthdays were: Anthony and Mary Lapinski, Irma Manning Warren and Zita Bequette, and Steve Barry. Manning reminded the members of the come share program.

She said that organizations were buying units of food and giving it to those in need and asked if the group would like to do the same. It was suggested to "pass the hat." Through the generosity of those present, enough was donated to purchase three units.

The March 18 meeting will be the annual corned beef and cabbage dinner. Reservations and payment will be taken at the February meeting. 1991 dues must be paid. Members will pay half the cost and the club will absorb half. There will be an auction following the meal.

Members expressed interest in a day trip and information will be presented at a later meeting.

Prizes were won by: Katherine

Armchair travelers take trip to Turkey in January

Travelers Abroad held its January dinner meeting at Jerry's Cafeteria with 24 members and one guest, Mary Earls, present. Dr. Alice Purdes, president, welcomed the group and announced that congratulations were in order. She announced that Betty Townsend, who works for the government, was to be honored in Washington at the Pentagon in a few days. She also noted that Tonia Kirchoff was honored recently by the Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution with the presentation of the DAR Americanism Medal.

For the evening's program Barbara Williams spoke about

Turkey, which she visited in November. Thirty-four people were on the tour, which traveled by bus from Ankara southeast to Urgup and then west through Konya, Antalya, Panukale, Izmir, and Canakkale, all on the Asian continent. The bus was ferried across the Dardanelles to the Gallipoli Peninsula in Europe and then driven north to Istanbul, where the tour ended.

In Ankara, the group's first stop was at Attaturk's Mausoleum complex. Located on the highest hill in the city, the area is ceremonially guarded by members of the armed services from the huge parking lot. The group went down the lion's path to the "Square" and through the left turn to the golden-colored mausoleum. Unmanned guards were also on duty both outside and inside the structure all the way to the sarcophagus at the far end of the building.

The Museum of Anatolian Civilization, one of the finest in the world and containing masterpieces of all cultures dating back to 200 B.C., was housed in a restored covered bazaar and an ancient inn, which had been melded together.

The Republic of Turkey was formed in October 1923. Gen. Kemal, who later took the name of Attaturk, moved the administrative and political center to Ankara, a village of 3,000 then, but now a western-style city of 3 million.

The tour group learned that Turkish villages are built against mountains, which provide water, wood and protection. Tour members saw many flocks of sheep with attendants frequently wearing a blanket and accompanied by a dog. The dogs' ears are removed and they generally wear a metal-spiked collar, both of which protect the dogs from attacks by wild animals.

The Cappadocia area, around Urgup, is where violent volcanoes erupted 3 million years ago and covered the plateau with mud, ashes and lava, forming a brittle rock. Rain and wind have carved all kinds of shapes in the region. Early residents hollowed out houses, monasteries and churches.

In the Zelve area the group climbed up rock steps and metal ladders into six churches, that had been a learning area for priests, to view paintings and frescoes on the walls and ceilings, which had been there for over a thousand years. They also visited an underground city area where early Christians lived. The tourists only went down four levels of six to seven levels. The underground cities even had a cemetery.

In Konya, the fourth largest city in Turkey, the group visited the mausoleum and museum complex of Mevlana, who started the Moslem mystic sect known as the whirling dervishes. Strong believers in music and dance, they thought by their continual whirling, sometimes for four hours at a time, one could free himself from earthly bondage.

This is a holy place for the Moslems and many of the closed mosques have huge white turbans sitting on them.

In the area near Antalya, and for quite some distance west, the visitors saw loads of cotton in parked vehicles waiting for the government to buy it. Turkey's cotton is reputed to be of excellent quality. Also, they saw piles of sugar beets waiting to be trucked to market and orchards of tangerines, apricots and olives.

Visits were made to the ancient cities of Side, Aspendos, and Perge. The disciple Paul gave his first sermon in Perge, which was a large, walled city with marble streets, which still bear the imprints of chariots.

At Panukale, or the old Roman city of Hierapolis, they viewed the terraces and waterfalls formed from deposits of calcium carbonate carried by thermal springs. The area is sometimes referred to as the cotton castle or fortress.

Ephesus, referred to as the "Second Holy Land" for Christians, was another stop. In AD 100, this was the capital city of Asia Minor and it had a population of 250,000. The tourists saw the House of the Virgin Mary, which is now a tiny chapel, and learned that both St. Paul and St. John preached here.

The Temple of Artemis, the Seventh Wonder of the Ancient World, was in this area but only one tall column and many broken pieces remain. Two large buried statues of Artemis were found in the 1960s and are on display in the museum, with one of the largest in the lobby of the Efes Hotel in Izmir.

In Izmir, Turkey's third largest city located on the Aegean Sea, the tourists were frequently asked if they were with NATO Headquarters, which has many foreign personnel in the area. There were also a large number of police or soldiers walking or standing on the streets or beside stores. They all had guns, about the size of machine guns, cradled in their arms.

Pergamon, from which everything Turkish had been taken by German archaeologists back to Berlin, was visited as well as the ancient city of Troy. The "wooden horse" is the most interesting sight here.

Diggings are going on in many sections of Troy because there are nine levels of civilizations stacked on top of each other. It is believed that the Troy in Homer's "Iliad" referred to the city on the sixth level.

After ferrying across to the Gallipoli Peninsula, on the continent of Europe, the group visited three cemeteries, where several thousand Australian and New Zealand young men died as the British and French tried to conquer Istanbul in 1915 by invading through the narrowest point of the Dardanelles.

Churchill's spies evidently gave him incorrect information on the fortifications of the area, according to the guide. Kemal directed the Turkish army.

Proceeding north to Istanbul, a city 2,600 years old, the group visited the most important sites including the Blue Mosque, Suleyman's Mosque, and St. Sophia's. They toured the Topkapı Palace, where sultans with their harems ruled for 400 years over an empire that stretched from the gates of Venice to the Persian Gulf. The tour group had special tickets to visit the harem on a guided tour. They were the only group allowed the privilege on that day.

A visit to the Covered Bazaar with its 4,000 shops, many main streets and side streets was exciting and no one got lost, even though all were on their own for two hours.

Turkish airport security, which begins at the front door when one shows their ticket and passport to enter the building, is tight as the group found out, even though all were on their luggage.

Members present were: Lillian Delpo, Nina Dittman, Lilli Ann Firner, Dorothy and Waldo Frohardt, Eunice and Julianne Hatcher, Martha and Jimmy Hayes, Joe and Jen Hill, Dorothy Hoedebeck, Elma Hoover, Marguerite and Charles Lowry, Helen Lilly, Genevieve McComis, Emma Schoen, Betty Duft, and Marjorie King, a new member.

The next dinner meeting, on Feb. 25, will present a program on Japan by Dr. and Mrs. James Mikolajczak and their house guest, an exchange student from Japan.

338 boxes net scout top honors

Jessica Brown of Troop 222, a 9-year-old 4th grader at Wilson School, has been honored for her sale of Girl Scout cookies.

Jessica sold 338 boxes of Girl Scout cookies. She received a girl scout doll and a letter and an autographed photo from U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello.

Troop 222 leader is Deborah Richardson.

Total sales in Granite City, Mitchell and Pontoon Beach amounted to 42,532 boxes.

Troop members wish to thank everyone who bought cookies and to all the girl scouts who sold them.

The profits support the troops, camps, buy equipment and materials, plus much more.

JESSICA BROWN of Troop 222 receives an award from Kathy Lickenbrock, neighborhood cookie chairman. Seated is Sylvia Molski, assistant neighborhood cookie chair.

Easter sunrise services announced.

The Lutheran Bureau of the Tri-Cities reports that the Easter Sunrise Service will be held for the 43rd consecutive year at the Wilson Park ice skating pavilion.

The services will be from 6 to 6:30 a.m. March 31.

Special speaker this year will be the International Lutheran Hour's preacher, the Rev. Dr. Dale A. Meyer. His messages on "The Lutheran Hope", a radio ministry of the International Lutheran Laymen's League, are broadcast on more than 1,300 radio stations internationally.

A conservative estimate indicates that a minimum of 40 million people hear Lutheran Hour programs each week. It can be heard in this area over radio station KFUO-AM 850 on Sundays at 12:30 p.m. Commissioners of the Lutheran Bureau this year are Jim Chat, Virgil Ware, Harold E. Krohne Jr., John T. Severine Sr., William Lohmann, and William Seibold. Pastoral advisors are the Rev. David Fielding, and the Rev. Samuel Boda.

The brass ensemble that accompanies the singing of the worshippers will once again be conducted by Severine.

Sports Committee critical in luring Olympic Festival

By Dennis Barnidge
Staff writer

Without the umbrella of the St. Louis Sports Committee, the effort to attract a high-profile national amateur sporting event may have been all wet. At least that's the gospel according to several of the key players who successfully sold the area as a site for the 1994 Olympic Festival.

"The Sports Committee has driven this thing. There wouldn't have been a Festival bid without the Sports Committee," said Jim Bogart, one of the organizers of the group and a member of the 10-man St. Louis Metropolitan Festival Organizing Committee that made the area's final pitch at the USOC meetings late last week.

"I don't think we could've done it" without using the Sports Committee as the focal point of the bid, said Gary Heifetz, chairman of the group that met with USOC officials in Dallas last week.

Mike Dyer, executive director of the Sports Committee, won't go so far as to say the committee was the key to attracting the Olympic Festival. But he says the growth of the amateur sports business and the increased competition for events has increased the need for some form of coordinating agency to get involved in bids for events.

Sports committees, commissions and authorities are beasts of the 1980s. They have mushroomed as states, regions and cities have stumbled on the good press, increased visibility and high profits of hosting various sporting events.

"I think we were about the 20th or so city to have a sports committee and since then the number's about doubled," said Bogart, who had a hand in forming the committee in 1988 while working at the St. Louis Region of Commerce and Growth Association.

Dyer says Bogart's estimate of the growth of organizations formed to attract sports-related business may be light. He says there likely are 50 to 60 sports committees operating across the country.

One strike is enough to justify the existence of a sports committee. Estimates on the financial impact of the 1994 Festival the USOC awarded to St. Louis top $100 million and the Festival is hardly the biggest fish in the amateur sports sea.

Dyer is one of three full-time employees of the St. Louis Sports Committee. The committee itself consists of 65 area business, community and sports leaders. That total reflects only a portion of the business and community participation in sports-related business. Dyer said approximately 150 people did volunteer work with the Festival subcommittee.

The Sports Committee still operates as an arm of the RCGA. The RCGA has approximately 38 similar groups that focus on special interest areas ranging from housing and roads to legislative matters. The RCGA funds the Sports Committee in the tune of $175,000 annually.

Oddly, the St. Louis bid for the Festival was born not out of a desire to toss one of the USOC's non-Olympic year competitions, but out of a couple to whom it may concern letters from the USOC that wound up at St. Louis City Hall in summer 1989. The letters, which invited area representatives to visit the '89 Festival in Oklahoma City, eventually wound up in the hands of Sports Committee leaders Edward "Doc" Bauer and Bogart, and an idea was born.

A study by Heifetz, an attorney, and Howard Wood, chief executive officer of Cencom Cable Television, started the Sports Committee seriously down the path toward pursuing the Festival. "They said, 'We can handle this and ought to consider it,'" Bogart recalls.

From the time Heifetz and Wood completed their study in fall 1989 to Friday's USOC announcement, things have moved rapidly. They had to "I'd say a year ago we were an extreme longshot," said Dyer.

St. Louis' bid came together too quickly, Heifetz said, thanks to a generous volunteer effort. Two dozen area businesses were formally recognized last week as Corporate Friends for donating a minimum of $5,000 to the Festival bid. And the list goes beyond those two dozen businesses.

"When we've gone out and asked people, they've responded," said Bogart. "I don't know of anybody who's turned us down."

Tips can help to avoid burns

Every minute of every day, three people receive a burn injury, according to the American Burn Association.

That translates into almost 2 million people annually who receive burn injuries, and 80,000 of those victims require hospitalization.

In recognition of the need to educate the public about burn prevention and fire safety, the Shriners Burns Institute and the Shrine of North America are offering these tips to promote safety and to prevent burn accidents.

Keep your water heater set no higher than 120 degrees Fahrenheit. It takes only five seconds to receive a serious scald burn at 140 degrees.

Always check bath water temperature before placing children in the bathtub. 37,000 children were treated in hospital emergency rooms for kitchen and tap scalds in 1989.

When cooking, establish a "safe area" in the kitchen where children can play away from risk, but still under supervision. Never let children near hot surfaces or hot liquids.

Develop a home fire escape plan, and rehearse with the entire family using several alternative exit routes. More than 6,500 people die from fires and burns annually in the U.S.

Install smoke detectors, and change the batteries at least once a year. Most home fires occur at night when people are sleeping. Thus it is vital to have at least one smoke detector near the bedroom area in order to awaken family members in the case of fire.

Puncture plastic wraps before heating food in a microwave oven, and use care when removing coverings and lids from microwaved food. Steam escaping from a container can cause a scald burn. More than 1,000 children were burned last year due to hot food and liquid heated in a microwave oven.

The three Shriners Burns Institutes and the 19 orthopedic Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children provide orthopedic and burn medical care absolutely free of charge to children up to 18 years of age. The hospitals were founded by the Shrine of North America, an international fraternal organization with approximately 775,000 members.

For more information on burn care, contact the Shrine Burn Institute, Cincinnati, Ohio, at (513) 751-3900.

Teaching children about money starts at home

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Sue Weiss' son began receiving an allowance at 4. There was a two-fold method to this madness: By giving Eric his own funds to spend, she eliminated from family shopping trips the buy-me-something-please. And since the youngster couldn't afford to buy a trinket or candy bar every time out, she was teaching him responsible money management.

The lessons already have been put to good use. From April to August, Eric, now 8, spent none of his allowance, saving every penny, plus the proceeds from recycling aluminum cans, to pay half the cost of a Nintendo video game. His parents matched his contribution.

"He amazed me," says Weiss, associate vice president at A.G. Edwards & Sons Inc., the brokerage house.

Unfortunately, most parents don't know how to teach these values to their children, says Diane Pearl, of Moneywise, a financial education firm.

Studies back up her observation: The Joint Council of Economic Education recently found "appalling ignorance" of monetary concepts among America's children. A University of Texas professor who interviewed children from 4 to 12 on their shopping habits learned that, for nearly all youngsters, the terms "shopping" and "buying" are synonymous.

Shopping is virtually an addiction. Half of the 6-year-olds make one purchase per week, spending nearly $135 a year; all 10- and 12-year-olds make at least two purchases a week, ringing up almost $360 a year, reports marketing professor James McNeal.

St. Louis children with savings accounts often have unrealistic expectations. "Generally, the first thing they're saving for is a car," a goal of those as young as 5, says Sue Hutchins, vice president at Mercantile Bank.

What's a parent to do? Be a better role model, local experts say. "We have to teach some things," students have learned from watching their parents, says Nancy Becot, business education teacher at Kirby Junior High in the Hazelwood School District.

In fact, many students have taken to heart lessons learned at home. "Most students don't budget. They live from allowance to allowance, from paycheck to paycheck, just like their elders do," says Robert Gregor, business teacher at Edwardsville High School.

A third party such as a teacher, banker or financial advisor can reinforce good money management principles. High school seniors in Illinois must pass a one-semester consumer education class to graduate.

The main problem with that requirement is the course, Gregor says. While it is the most practical of all those offered to high school students, the course covers "topics that haven't struck home yet," such as setting a budget or how to buy a house, he says.

The process of instilling good money management in young minds should begin well before high school, Pearl says. The first step is to give children responsibility. When going to the movies, let the child put the admission money in his pocket, let him actually buy the ticket. Many preschool children are ready for that responsibility, she says.

The next step is a weekly allowance. The average for those aged 4 through 12 was $4.42 in 1989, according to McNeal's calculations.

Here is where experts part company. Some maintain that allowances should be awarded because children are part of the family. Others recommend tying the allowance with chores; annual raises and added responsibilities are part of this scenario.

Students whose allowances are tied to completing household chores are better money managers than others, Becot says.

Pearl, a proponent of requiring children to earn an allowance, used to keep a list of chores her son had to complete. The last item on the list—literally the bottom line—was the child's financial reward.

Some goals must be set, she says. But the goals must be reachable, such as Eric Weiss saving half the price of a Nintendo game. When Pearl's son, Austin, now 14, wanted a pair of Air Jordan basketball shoes, she figured he'd have to caddy six Saturdays to accumulate his half of the purchase price.

That experience has helped him understand the value of money, she says.

Adds Linda Boka, "As a parent, I find that when a child has to earn their money, they're more responsible." She is a home economics teacher at Madison Action Learning & Career Exploration School, a magnet school in the City of St. Louis.

Boka, who teaches home economics to kindergarten through eighth-grade students, says teaching how money can be saved during shopping provides a valuable lesson for students. She shows sixth graders how to substitute refrigerated biscuits for higher-priced packaged pizza dough, how one bar of baker's chocolate can make brownies at a lower cost than buying a packaged mix.

Every opportunity you give them to experience a savings sticks with them," she says.

In fact, that is the best advice educators can offer. "You learn by doing," Pearl says.

Those lessons sink in. Mercantile's Hutchins says. Youngsters with savings accounts make regular deposits. "Once children start saving, they don't want to take it out."

Channel 5 shines in ratings for January

The folks at KSDK-TV (Channel 5) may not be dancing in the halls exactly, but they certainly must be pleased with the January ratings as measured by Nielsen.

The survey of homes with meters to monitor what people in St. Louis watched Jan. 3 to 30 indicates Channel 5 News has turned back a challenge from KMOV-TV (Channel 4), at least for the time being. You may recall that in the last few months of 1990, Channel 4 had been cutting into Channel 5's once-enormous lead, but aided by huge audiences at the outbreak of the Gulf War, KSDK's Important 10 p.m. news put together a 24 rating, 36 share. (Both numbers indicate percentages of homes watching a particular program. However, rating is the percentage for the total market while share is the percentage of homes with television sets turned on.) Channel 4 turned in a 19 rating, 28 share for its 10 p.m. news, and KTVI-TV (Channel 3) had a 7 rating, 11 share.

The fairly unusual feature of the January survey is that it showed more homes using television (HUT) at 6 p.m. than at 10 p.m. That may be a result of the war as they get home, but it should be noted that weather and other factors can have important effects on HUT levels. In fact, HUT levels were high at 6 p.m. last January, too.

In any event, Channel 5's audience figures for its 6 p.m. news were significantly higher than they were a year ago. This year the numbers were 25 rating, 37 share compared to 20/30 for January 1990. Channel 4 got 17/25 compared to 16/24 last January, and Channel 2 got 6/9 at 6 p.m. with its newscast replacing the sleazy "A Current Affair." For January 1990, Channel 2 received 9/14.

There is no doubt that Channel 5 got a boost from war coverage. The ratings indicate thousands of people switched to KSDK when the shooting started and stayed with that station for at least the first couple of days of the war. It is a truism in the television industry that, in times of important breaking news, audiences will flock to whichever station has established an image in the market for news. Channel 5 has certainly established that image over the past few years.

The ratings/shares for the major newscasts for January were as follows:

Channel 5: 5 p.m., 21 rating/34 share; 6 p.m., 25/37; 10 p.m., 24/36.

Channel 4: 5 p.m., 17 rating/29 share; 6 p.m., 17/25; 10 p.m., 19/28.

Channel 2: 5 p.m., 6 rating/9 share; 6 p.m., 6/9; 10 p.m., 7/11. Channel 2, which has just shuffled its anchor teams, and re-established its 6 p.m. news, so far is not getting much reward for its efforts. But apparently, management is gritting its teeth and digging in for the long haul. One source indicated that morale is surprisingly high at all levels because the employees have faith in changes that have taken place at the corporate level.

Channel 2 is owned by the Times-Mirror Publishing Co., which last year replaced John McTory as president of its Broadcast Division with Bud Carey, who, it appears, has the confidence of his employees and of station management at KTVI. The station continues to stand out for its commitment to important local issues.

Anchor Don Marsh and Education Reporter Sharon Stevens collaborated on a documentary town meeting on the subject of public education, which was presented Feb. 1. The program took a well-crafted look at some positive things going on at Parkway North High School and at Walbridge Elementary which is part of the St. Louis Public Schools; it then featured a "town meeting" which was edited from a discussion involving some decision-makers in education and a live audience.

Although, as always, much of the discussion tended to be self-serving, the documentary segments on the school were revealing and, certainly, unusual, in that they focused on positives.

The station wiped out an hour of prime-time programming for the effort.

A repeat of the documentary, plus a one-hour version of the town meeting, is scheduled for 11:30 a.m., Sunday, Feb. 10.

Channel 2 says this is just the first stage of a two-year effort called "Great Expectations," which will "focus attention on education and attempt to motivate parental and community involvement in educating children in the St. Louis area," according to a publicity release.

High film admission prices to stay high

By Harry Hamm Correspondent

Exhibitors and studio representatives alike were abuzz last week in Las Vegas at the results of an industry survey which showed the majority of people who regularly attend movies believe admission prices are too high. The industry folks were attending the National Association of Theater Owners/ShowWest convention.

"Ticket prices can't and won't go down," said Tim Warner, NABO/ShowWest general chairman. "We just have to do a better job of convincing the customer that the movies are still a good value."

"Top tickets prices on the East Coast and West Coast are about $7.50; duets to first-run films in St. Louis are $5.50, which is considered on the low end nationally."

"MEET ME IN ST. LOUIS." The Muny has rescheduled the Fox Theater run of "Ziegfeld" to May 28 through June 2. The original dates slated for "Ziegfeld"—April 30 through May 5—now will be seen by the touring company of "Meet Me in St. Louis," which ran on Broadway.

Women swapping personalities has long film history

Women who swap personalities, and even identities, always are terrific roles for the actresses who play them. Take Mary Steenburgen in Arthur Penn's far-fetched but wonderfully fraught suspense film, "Dead of Winter" (1987, CBS/Fox, $79.98). Steenburgen plays a resilient actress who will go anywhere for a job, even to a snowy upstate New York mansion where she's videotaped by a creepy eccentric played by Roddy McDowall.

From there, things get scarier. Steenburgen gives us an acting workout, playing both the victimized heroine and her victimizer, a rich, murderous twin. At one point, in order to save her life, the resourceful actress has to imitate her evil look-alike.

Liv Ullmann made her first big impact on American audiences in Ingmar Bergman's "Persona" (1967, Facets, $19.95), portraying an actress who can't take it any more and withdraws into a mute state of being. Bibi Andersson plays her nurse, who can't stand Ullmann's silence.

Anderson begins to talk and talk to her passive patient, until finally their identities merge. Critic Pauline Kael calls Anderson's monologue about a night of love on the beach one of the rare truly ecstatic sequences in movie history.

Another art-film choice is director Luis Buñuel's last film, "That Obscure Object of Desire" (1977, Embassy Home Entertainment, $29.98). The director cast two actresses, Heidi and Angela Molina and brunette Carole Bouquet, in the same part. Fernando Rey plays their frustrated suitor, an infatuated middle-aged fool with the comic aplomb of television's Sherman Hemsley ("Amen"). Buñuel doesn't actually have the women exchanging personalities; instead he has them illustrate the two maddeningly contradictory sides of any lover's emotional makeup.

role-swapping, there's "Freaky Friday" (1977, Disney, $69.95), a Disney movie so well cast that it resembles a Bunuel film. This is a generation-gap fantasy, with a suburban mom magically switching identities with her adolescent daughter.

Mom is played by Barbara Harris, and the kid is 14-year-old Jodie Foster, already at her wisecracking best. Watching Harris go juvenile and Foster act like a demanding parent is a delight, even if this Disney production ultimately follows the usual formula conclusion.

Viewers in the mood for a thriller will enjoy "Black Widow" (1986, CBS/Fox, $19.98), in which Debra Winger goes undercover to catch the bad girl, husband-murderer Theresa Russell. Although Russell is evil through and through, she lives so luxuriously that Winger becomes fascinated and envious, and turns into a swinger on the job. Both actresses play their roles to the hilt. Beautifully photographed on location in Hawaii by cinematographer Conrad Hall, this detective mystery also doubles as a vicious tropical vacation.

The classic case of personality takeover is Anne Baxter's assault on Bette Davis in "All About Eve" (1950, Key Video, $19.98). Eve (Baxter), posing as an idealistic fan of theatrical legend Margo Channing (Davis), is a wolf in sheep's clothing, preying on Margo's sympathy and vulnerability.

George Sanders, in his Oscar-winning role as a cynical critic named Addison de Witt, and Thelma Ritter, as Davis' all-seeing maid, offer sharp-tongued commentary on the proceedings under director-writer Joseph L. Mankiewicz's masterful guidance.

A recent update of "Eve" is "Anna" (1987, Vestron, $79.98), in which Oscar nominee Sally Kirkland plays a middle-aged Czech actress in New York City who takes in a young Polish immigrant. The stunning model Paulina Porizkova stars as the latter, and it's no surprise when her star rises and Kirkland seethes with frustration from the sidelines.

Real Bets:
• "The Witches" (1990, Warner, $89.95): Anjelica Huston scintillates as the chief witch in this charming fairy tale, adapted by director Nicholas Roeg from a story by the late Roald Dahl.

• "Paul Bowles in Morocco" (1970, Mystic Fire Video, $29.95, 900-727-6438): Gary Conklin's portrait of the expatriate author of "The Sheltering Sky," as he wanders around his exotic adoptive homeland. The soundtrack boasts the Berber-African music that Bowles has recorded in his effort to preserve the vanishing culture of tribal society.

Women of Achievement

Nominations are now being accepted.

The Suburban Journals and KMOX Radio are proud to sponsor the 1990 Women of Achievement Awards.

Women of Achievement give unselfishly of their time and energies to help people in need and to improve the quality of life in their communities. They work without urging...without pay and usually without recognition.

A committee of community leaders will choose ten honorees to be recognized at the Women of Achievement luncheon this spring. Nominations should include the nominees full name, address and phone number; information on her achievements; support letters from the organizations she serves, if possible; and your name, address and telephone number.
